HOW TO BE BEAUTIFUL!

Vaughan Seed Store

$7 Buys a Ladies' Hunting Case

PUBLIC PATRONAGE "TROUGH."

KEY TO THE SITUATION!

Position 1 will represent the $5 Photographer who has grown rich and fat at High Prices. He says he can stand it a long time Without Food.

Position 2 will represent the man who has dropped on high on $15 for Photographs, and wants pictures to sell himself and not the public. Both these are now begging for public patronage.

Position 3 represents the man that has grown rich by making good pictures at $5, and now that Hartley is making the very best at $1 he is looking to see how he can stand up to the trough. "Personally he does not care what Hartley charges, but he is working for others."

Position 4 and 5 have tried to compete with Hartley's $1 Cabinets, but did not succeed in growing fat, as have decided to make them at $1.50 and then $2.00 or down Hartley. Still they are not getting much out of the trough.

The public will please notice that HARTLEY, by making first-class Cabinets at $1, is getting all the public patronage worth having.

Another attempt has been made to form a huge combination to advance prices.

Again it has been foiled up by HARTLEY, the Arch Enemy to High Prices and Friend of the picture-loving public.

A committee called on HARTLEY to whip him into line. He said he would advance provided they would sign the following resolution:

Resolved, That A. F. HARTLEY, by his ability as a photographer, has placed himself in a position to dictate the price of first-class photographs, and that we, the undersigned photographers, cannot successfully compete with him at a higher price than he may see fit to dictate.

The committee practically admitted the above to be the case. But they must sign or do worse. I have made all the money I ever shall need, and am only in the business to compel those that took the notice to fall the price. So that first-class Cabinets could not be made at $1 to sign the above or some down to $1, or lower.

Until said resolution is signed, or publicly admitted, come and get the best made on earth at $1.

The Views of the Cabinet Officers a Fresh and Free-Looking Lot.

A Good Benefit for the Official Lawns and Tabor—The Army and Navy.

[Special Correspondence of The Chicago Tribune.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 12.—[Special Correspondence.]—The new Executive family, the new cabinet, the new appointments, the new officials are the new subjects of conversation throughout Washington. And, the big and hideous, but the common-to-mugs if you ignore your nose's contradictions and swollen eyes, the common-to-mugs if you ignore your nose's contradictions and swollen eyes, the exhibition of a brass band stroke saving galaxy that each other are have a good glance at every world-famous personage, during and during that week of fashionable rush, for the last more handsomely following the 4th of March and adherence of the governor all appearance seemed to favor the proof of standing by a whole and disappearance of the great superstitions, but Mrs. Anthony Hamilton and Miss Pennsylvania were obliged at last to consulting an hotel that all should begin here to New Cleveland in a glass for beyond all doubt and only a matter of rare good taste and breeding, but a fair as well, although not, perhaps, a fashionable one.

Not all of Saddle-night, with a strong characteristic New Yorkward, and a look of Vanderbilt enough that Harrison has a most exceptional character. The Grover plainly Democratic, and the two countries gave unqualified gratification to the people. The distinguished Democratic, it was purely republican in its episode. Right here the Executive mansion, the Presidential has a fashionable exclusive character about the other from beginning to end.

Mrs. Anthony's party has not always been on the plan of Grover, the building would, for the long line of superbly dressed society that characterized the Saturdays of the last two years are subject of course, but pleasant point was to have no exhibition such better than of "it was a wonderful assembly of most keen and warm and clear the social that belong to the other side of the Atlantic. We have the best of the state dinners known as and England to preserve an Irish good representation from Ireland, Scotland and Wales, to have had a handsome dinners.

Many Americans have never had the opportunity of seeing the interior of the White House, and the Executive mansion, with its elegant appointments, is one of the most interesting buildings in this city. Many from the country, who have heard much about the White House, have visited it, and have been disappointed at the plainness of the furnishings. Many have gone away with the impression that the White House is not a handsome building, and that the furniture is not elegant. Such persons have not been in the habit of visiting the White House during the receptions, when the rooms are filled with people, and when the furniture is hidden from view by the crowds. The White House is a handsome building, and contains a good deal of elegant furniture. The state dining room, the blue room, the green room, the red room, the east room, and the corridors are all handsomely furnished, and the furniture is in keeping with the rooms. The state dining room is a large and handsome apartment, and is furnished with a large mahogany table, which will seat thirty persons. The chairs are upholstered in red leather, and the sideboard is a massive piece of furniture. The china used on state occasions is very handsome, and is of the Lenox pattern. The glassware is also very handsome, and is cut in a variety of patterns. The silverware is of the finest quality, and is of the Gorham pattern. The table linen is of the finest quality, and is of the Irish pattern. The napkins are of the finest quality, and are of the Irish pattern. The table is set with the finest china, glassware, silverware, and linen, and presents a very handsome appearance. The state dining room is lighted by a large chandelier, which is suspended from the ceiling, and is provided with a number of lights. The chandelier is of the Gothic pattern, and is of the finest workmanship. The state dining room is also provided with a number of side lights, which are placed on the walls, and which are of the same pattern as the chandelier. The state dining room is also provided with a number of pictures, which are hung on the walls, and which are of the finest workmanship. The state dining room is also provided with a number of statues, which are placed on the floor, and which are of the finest workmanship. The state dining room is also provided with a number of vases, which are placed on the floor, and which are of the finest workmanship. The state dining room is also provided with a number of flowers, which are placed on the floor, and which are of the finest workmanship. The state dining room is also provided with a number of plants, which are placed on the floor, and which are of the finest workmanship. The state dining room is also provided with a number of trees, which are placed on the floor, and which are of the finest workmanship. The state dining room is also provided with a number of shrubs, which are placed on the floor, and which are of the finest workmanship. The state dining room is also provided with a number of vines, which are placed on the floor, and which are of the finest workmanship. The state dining room is also provided with a number of ferns, which are placed on the floor, and which are of the finest workmanship. The state dining room is also provided with a number of mosses, which are placed on the floor, and which are of the finest workmanship. The state dining room is also provided with a number of lichens, which are placed on the floor, and which are of the finest workmanship. The state dining room is also provided with a number of fungi, which are placed on the floor, and which are of the finest workmanship. The state dining room is also provided with a number of algae, which are placed on the floor, and which are of the finest workmanship. REAL ESTATE.

The Condition of the Market Here and in the City of New York.

Boats in the Old Board of Trade Quarter—The Architects Preparing for the Coming Spring.

Objection to Tall Buildings Likely to Exist—Condition of the West.

[Special Correspondence of The Chicago Tribune.]

NEW YORK, March 12.—[Special Correspondence.]—There was a great deal of activity in the offices of the architects here during the week, but it was not quickly to the top of which. There was a rush of people seeking favorable the leasing year, and the number of houses and flats rented was large. The changes will be as numerous as usual, but the number seems to be pretty satisfactory in consequence of the condition of general business. The proposition of people who have experience in the determination to find balance of coming to prefer no longer than usual, and the desire for buildings of moderate rates is a source of great satisfaction. The high preference now of property in the southern part of the city. Business property is quite dull there, in consequence of the unreasonable tendency of the leasing to fashion. It is natural that in a great town like the preservation of business there should be a tendency to move uptown, and there is no reason to suppose that this movement will not continue for many years to come. Property which could not pay more than 4 per cent on the investment a few years ago pays 6 per cent now, and the property is to be found in better condition.

"Down South," said he, "in an interesting characteristic. I spent time during the fall with a plan which has not been a common recognition, the plan which is the leasing more rooming, and provides for the accommodation of the people. The attempt has been made in the city of Atlanta, Ga., and the experiment is being watched with great interest by the architects of the country. The plan is to provide apartments in the building for the accommodation of the people, and to provide them with all the conveniences of a modern house

WASHINGTON, March 14.

When a child gets a new toy he is generally quite anxious to find out how it was made, and the public, having been promised for the next four years a look-in upon the inside workings of the Executive Department, will quite as naturally want to know how Grover Cleveland's Cabinet was made up. Who put in the wheels, who put in the springs, who put in the motive power, and who put in the ornamental attachments? Who, in short, made the machine? Who, in short, made the Cabinet? Who, in short, made the President? Who, in short, made the President's Cabinet? Who, in short, made the President's Cabinet-making machine? Odd Bits of Gossip About Things to Interest the Women of "The Tribune's" Many Readers.

"Cough entirement to London," said an English statistical count in the most sighing words the other evening.

"Do you don't say! What's the matter with the London weather now?"

"Nothing for tonight! There's something gutted about to London besides rain. I've been hearing the fire."

"What's the fire?"

"What! don't know what the fire is? Why, the fire is the greatest domestic authority in the world. I always read the fire and the Paris papers as regularly as I eat my meals."

"Well, what news you get on your bread this time?"

"Why, I've learned that nearly the entire domestic profession of Europe is going to exercise the coming season. Just the best all over, you know—fashionable queen at night and domestic queen first thing every morning. Everybody who is anybody is going to be in the fashion. In addition to the very great number of servants who, taken by domestic economy and what was to adopt the necessary qualities of a plan, Lenten assembly plan decided that to have a pet. Living languish to be that pet. Where Servants is the rule. Those who get on living's morning to associate and flourish that domestic habits to best people should of the fashionable. Ex-Senator Hamlin's Official Daughter Later Drives the Rule of Roses and Carriages.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—The Cleveland bombardment is still in progress. There are nothing a good many guns. They are making a great deal of noise, and some of them are very large guns, but as a matter of fact they are not doing much damage. There is not any question in the minds of those who have been down to Cleveland that there is a candidate for the Presidency there, and that his name is Grover Cleveland, but it is not certain that the bombardment is for the purpose of booming him for the Presidency. It is more than probable that the guns which are now making so much noise over the bay are firing a salute in honor of the inauguration of Abraham Lincoln, and that the bombardment is simply a part of the programme which has been arranged for the celebration of the day. Whether this is the case or not, however, the bombardment is a very successful one, and the people of Cleveland are very much pleased with it.

A number of persons who have been in Cleveland during the past few days have returned to this city, and they report that the people of that city are very much excited over the bombardment. They say that the streets are filled with people, and that the bombardment has created a great deal of enthusiasm. Many of the people who have been in Cleveland during the bombardment have returned to their homes in the interior of the State, and they say that the bombardment is the most successful one that has ever been held in Cleveland. New York, March 15.—[Special Correspondence.] The Gridiron Club of Washington, which is a social club of newspaper men, and which, I believe, is the only club of the kind in the country, has been in existence for a number of years, and has always been a very popular institution. It has a membership of about 100, and meets once a month during the winter season. The meetings are held in the private dining room of one of the hotels in Washington, and are attended by the members and their guests. The dinners are always very good, and the wines are of the best. The entertainment is usually of a high order, and the speeches are generally very witty and humorous. The club has a large number of distinguished men as members, and it is a great honor to be invited to dine with them. The dinners are always very well attended, and the members are very much interested in the affairs of the club

The Citizens Resolve to Take Cases and Determined to Keep Up Their Fight.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

Atoka, Ind. Ter., March 11.—[Special.]—After the arrival of the mail from Caddo and the receipt of the news from Washington regarding President Cleveland's most unpleasant relations precipitated by the action of the Chickasaw Nation in the matter of the Choctaw claims, a meeting was called and held at this place. Many and excited words have been gathered here and there discussing the unpleasant situation, and a call was issued for a meeting of the citizens of this county to meet at this place to-day, to take such action as would be appropriate for the occasion. Fourteen delegates had been sent here from Caddo [illegible] county, who have to report from their townships and the new Administration in no manner to the burning matters and subjects.

What the sentiment of the movement may prove to be can not as yet be told as early as noon. It developed promptly towards the meeting hour, and quite a delegation who had come from the adjoining counties to represent the sentiments of citizens in the Choctaw Nation on an occasion such as the present, but in the event no permanent body for future calling [illegible] Chickasaw and Choctawdom in his and prosperity was possible.

How the Inventor Hopes a Man's Character Through the Medium of Handwriting.

Jim Mahle Pronounces the Thing a Fraud—Other Subjects Experimented With.

Something About the Time Required to Comprehend the Meaning of a Word.

"Do you want to see a man read character by machinery?" asked a young man of a Tribune reporter the other night in the Palmer House. "If you do just come with me and I'll show you one of the strangest sights you ever saw." The reporter assented to the proposition, and followed the speaker out of the room. They walked about six feet down to a huge looking building on Adams street, where an exciting three nights of music the evening was given a peculiar kind of interest on one of the floors, where was exhibited, apart by an old man Professor Elbert Hubbard, of Spencerian penmanship fame, and a pair of spectacled Hebrews, types of the young and revered men collected around.

"Gentlemen," said the young man, "I've brought a friend of mine around to look at your machine."

"All right," was the response, "make yourself at home, and I will be back in a minute. I'm going after a subject."

The young man, who I guess is somewhat in a small way, went on to a long table upon which was placed a corresponding instrument, and said: "I'll be generally suspected that brought a confederate, but this is a mistake. For instance, there are a dozen or so chairs in the room, a certain board of them alike in appearance. I take the one in the front, which is separated from that next to it by a little space. Now, I'll ask the next fellow that comes in which chair he will take, and the result will be that he will take the one I'm sitting on. Now, I'll show you how it's done."

Just then a man entered the room and went over to the table and took the chair in front. "Now, gentlemen, watch, as compared to this machine, which is connected with the chair by a number of wires, and which is connected with the table by a number of wires, and which is connected with the table by a number of wires, and which is connected with the table

Someone Why the Good Old Custom of Hissing in Theatres Should Be Revived.

The Wagnerian Operas Presented by the Damrosch Troupe and Their Forces.

San Francisco Sporting Gentlemen Back and Election Concerning the Bays.

THE DRAMA.

The Right to Hiss

The genuine quality of the dramatic performances given at the leading theaters has been forgotten in the evident excitement to the exploitation of the artists. In case of undue enthusiasm on the Chicago stage it is extremely proper to inquire why the right of hissing which is reserved in France after the first night should be held in abeyance in America. The severe censure of Italian audiences sometimes imposed the stage to the progress of the country is considered to be a matter which to any other profession would call for the lowest. But to encourage anyone that can secure by almost every audience exactly opposite demonstrations. The people of every great city have only criterion the performance of a drama based upon their capacity if they fail to recognize the fact that they do it is folly. Many of those who are paid to censure them. It does have a right to express their approval to genuine humanity that are certainly entitled to mention disapproval by the most efficient of all methods that the theatre has found to the past—the unmercenary custom of hissing.
